INCREASED EXPENDITURES

The last edition of the Lacombe Globe contains an editorial bemoaning the increasing taxation which is evident on all quarters, and recommending the wisdom of the Government taking over a large share of the cost of education. This latter demand is becoming stronger and stronger, and it was for the chief purpose of achieving this objective that the Alberta Education Council was organized.

Naturally we are in complete accordance with this idea. Land taxes, and the other local taxes that are paid by the farmers and businessmen are at a very high level, and promise to go higher, as more services are demanded and the cost of these services continues to rise.

The government has sources of income which they alone can tap, and it is just that a larger portion of their revenue should go toward the relief of municipal tax burdens . . . but

As government support is increased, and our local burdens eased, let us not forget one thing: that every dollar that is spent, whether it be by the government or the town or municipal council, or the school or hospital board comes from John Q. Public. You and I are the ones that pay the shot — except perhaps in the matter of taxes exclusively on the personal incomes or luxury expenses of the rich. When our government makes a dollar on cost of production which must eventually be paid by the consumer . . . you and I . . . and very likely with a few markups added to both the cost on the tax.

While the liquor taxes hit only a part of the population they do drain away cash, that might as well go in local taxes in the first place. Auto licenses, in fact every form of taxation adds to the burden that you and I must bear . . . and about the only virtue there is to the government collecting it for us and remitting it back to us in the form of school and health grants is that government taxation may have more of a tendency to hit those who are better able to pay. We are a little afraid, however, that any savings in this connection are somewhat offset by the fact that the government, with its multiplicity of departments and inspectors is faced with heavy collection costs.

So, folks, its fine to get bigger and better grants, it's the only way we can get our share of the cream the government is skinning . . . but let's remember . . . it's our money we're spending just the same.

Somebody suggested to the Scotch candymaker that he give a little more for the money. So he put longer sticks on his lollipops.

VOTE SAVER, PERHAPS — BUT NOT VOTE GETTER

It's rather amusing to read in many newspapers, comments linking the tax reduction featured in last week's budget with the election which is expected to take place this coming summer. Many of the comments infer that the government is buying votes with tax reductions. Without approaching the problem from a "party politics angle" we fail to see how such a conclusion can be well-founded. Following a period of high taxes such as we have just gone through, it is quite comprehensible that the Liberal party lost some of its supporters, perhaps quite a few of them, as a result. The income tax proved to be perhaps the most seriously annoying, and without discussing its justice or otherwise, if no doubt drove quite a large number of voters from the Liberal ranks.

The most that any tax reduction policy can do is to regain some of the lost voters. To win new ones by this action would be almost impossible.

And, by the way, in justice to the administration which is now in power, it must be admitted that they have had to steer the Ship of State through some pretty tough financial waters.

After writing the above we are very likely to be accused of being liberal — but just try to borrow a little money from us and you may soon find out that at heart we're conservative.

HERE'S WHY

Ye Editor is more qualified to talk of school problems as relating to Chauvin than any other point for obvious reasons, and after hearing various angles on the matter of Chauvin S.D.'s entry into the Wainwright School Division, felt that it might be well to review the facts of the situation in an effort to clear up any misunderstandings which may have arisen from lack of full information.

At first Chauvin S.D., in company with very many other village S.D.'s in the province was hesitant about entering Wainwright School Division, largely because of the loss of local autonomy.

Later, with increasing general prosperity, Chauvin S.D. established a sinking fund of $1,000.00 per year toward a much needed building program (at that time three rooms were in operation).

Very shortly after the establishment of this fund, it was found by the local board that the majority of the high school students, and quite a number in the lower grades were students coming in from Divisional S.D.'s.

As the cost of education per high school student was well over the $200.00 mark, and as the amount collected from the Division was in the order of $30.00 per student, the local board was finally impelled to seek admission to the Division in order to equalize this burden.

The agreement of inclusion as originally written provided that the local school board pay the cost of construction of two rooms of a school consisting of three rooms, and that the local board pay the cost of operation of these two rooms, while the Divisional board pay the cost of the operation of the remaining room.

This agreement was later found unworkable, and the local board was levied taxes at the regular rate plus a levy sufficient to raise $1,000.00 per year toward the building program. (This amount of $1,000.00 per year was later raised as building costs increased, to $1,200.00 per year).

"I had had luck with both my wives."

"How was that?"

"The first eloped."

"And the second?"

"Didn't."

The Nation's Business

Seven hundred and fifty thousand Canadians were removed from income tax rolls in the budget brought down by the Hon. Douglas Abbott, Minister of Finance.

The budget, the most welcome in Canadian history, reduced the Canadian tax bill by nearly $775,000,000. In more understandable terms, the Minister of Finance cut the taxes of every man, woman and child in Canada by almost 10%.

The most striking reductions were in income taxes which were cut by nearly one-third. This has been achieved, Mr. Abbott explained, by increasing exemptions for single persons from $750.00 to $1,000.00 and married people from $1,500.00 to $2,000.00. In addition, the rates of taxation have been reduced so that not only will there be fewer taxpayers — but those who still pay taxes will be paying less. Both reductions are effective as of January 1, 1949.

Exemptions for children under 18 are raised from $100.00 to $150.00. Exemptions for other dependents are raised from $200.00 to $400.00.

Here are some illustrations of the income tax reductions brought about by the Liberal Government: A single person earning $2,500 will have his tax cut from $220 to $225; a single person earning $5,000 will have his tax reduced from $485 to $480; if he earns $10,000, the cut will be from $2,253 to $1,560.

Taxes payable by a married person without dependents at the same three levels will come down from $170 to $175 from $470 to $510, and from $1,590 to $1,560.

In the case of married persons, with two dependents, the tax will drop, in the same income groups, from $30 to $30; from $230 to $245, and from $1,930 to $1,532.

Mr. Abbott pointed out that Canadians who have been paying 1948 taxes by the payroll deduction method and who have been eliminated from the tax rolls as a consequence of the new budget will receive refunds. In dollar terms, taxpayers in all brackets will be benefited but the effect is most marked in the lower income groups.

Of special interest to "teen-agers" was the statement of the Finance Minister that special taxes on soft drinks, candy and chewing gum have been removed. This was interpreted as meaning that there is a fair chance that these products may soon sell for five cents again. The fifteen per cent tax on all travel tickets has been dropped as have the extra taxes on long distance telephone calls, telegrams and cables.

Canadian women will be heartened at the news that the twenty-five per cent tax on jewelry, cosmetics and toilet preparations is reduced to ten per cent and the thirty-five per cent tax on luggage, handbags and similar articles is also reduced to ten per cent. Mr. Abbott said that pens and pencils which have been taxed thirty-five per cent will benefit from a cut to ten per cent. A further compensating factor is that, in the future, these taxes will be paid on the manufacturers' price instead of on the retail price as has been the practice in the past.

Two items which are not subject to tax reductions are liquor and tobacco. In addition to the tax changes, Mr. Abbott announced that, as of midnight, Tuesday, March 22, price ceilings are being taken off flour, bread, butter, sugar, molasses, fruits and vegetables not limited by restrictions. Several of these items are, of course, already selling below their ceiling prices. Controls still remain, however, on meat, steel and lumber.

The subsidy is withdrawn on wheat going into domestic flour. This has been subsidised by the Government at 1½¢ a bushel which works out to slightly less than one cent on a twenty four ounce loaf. It is anticipated that the effect of the drop in subsidy will be offset by the fact that some ingredients used in the making of bread, for example, lard and shortening, cost less.

The budget brought forth good news for the small businessman. Until now companies in Canada have paid a flat 30 per cent tax on all corporate profits. Under the new plan, the tax will be only 16 per cent on profits up to $10,000. Above $10,000 the tax will be 32 per cent.

This tax relief designed to encourage small companies to increase funds needed to grow and expand. A further important tax reform is the removal of double taxation on common shares. This to encourage creation of new wealth, new capital for new enterprises.

Other budget highlights: further 3-year extension on allowances granted to miners and oil exploration companies, that is up to and including 1952; 3-year tax exemption for certain metal and industrial mineral mines; to tariff changes at present; encouraging of British trade with Canada; "we must buy more from our customers if we are to sell more" — up to the "take advantage of opportunities" lies in Canada; without tax changes there would be an estimated surplus of $223 millions in the coming fiscal year; tax reductions reduce this surplus to $17 million.

Mr. Abbott summarised the financial record of this Liberal Government during the life of this present Parliament as follows:

In October 1945 we provided tax reductions of $300 million a year. In June 1946 we provided tax reductions of $165 million a year.

In April 1947 we provided tax reductions of $265 million a year.

In the 1947-48 session we provided tax reductions of $223 million a year. And now in March, 1949, we are providing tax reductions of $669 million a year.

Joe Rutledge Says

BY THEIR WORKS

Of all the political systems of our day free enterprise is the only one of which we demand an impossible perfection. Well-meaning men are ready to say or commit themselves that it is still in its infancy; of socialism, that it is hardly been tried. Yet communism, as a fighting creed, is over a hundred years old, and Robert Owen enunciated the precepts of socialism a century and a half ago. Free enterprise, as an active force, is no older. If we demand perfection of one, we must demand it of all, and all will fail.

A test that seems both more simple and more adequate is to ask which political and social creed has done most to widen horizons? Which has given the most people the most benefits?

The best that can be said for communism is that in its hundred years of life, and its thirty years of intensive propagation, it has gathered to it the discontented, the people who cannot, or will not, function under socialism, who prefer the swift plunges of revolution to the steady progress of evolution. Nowhere are its adherents fewer. Nowhere do they control their own destinies. Communism's horizon is bounded by the thinking and determination of the Soviet Politburo, elected by its own immediate followers and responsible to themselves alone. Even if, under it, mankind's material benefit, it would be at the cost of freedom. That is a total debit.

What has socialism done? In practice it has built on the foundation of free enterprise. It has not pioneered. It has made men more satisfied or more productive. It has only extended the amenities. New Zealand, the shopkeeper of socialism, has had a longer chance. By socializing profits it has not changed the fact that from 1939 to the present taxation has increased 223 per cent.

What of our system of enterprise? Granting its faults and limitations, where would the world be today but for the free enterprise countries? Where is there the most money, the most production, the most widespread tolerance, the most generous spirit? Where else in the world are men so free? Where else has the worker the right to combine and bargain? Where else have his earnings increased 200 per cent in half a century? Where else are men so protected and so free? Let us admit failures that must be remedied. But let us admit also that no other system has so practically approached a practical Christianity.

If all the speakers who go out giving advice on how to raise children were married and raising families, there would be no speakers to go out giving advice on how to raise children.

Better he'll spoken of by one before all than by all before one.

In these five successive budgets we have made tax reductions which now mount up to nearly $1,500 million a year.

During the past three years we have reduced our net debt by $1,625 million. Highlights of Mr. Abbott's review of present prosperity of the Canadian people: Canadians are enjoying higher standards of living than ever before; volume of industrial output of consumer and capital goods has never been higher; price level will go no higher, some items will be lower; present objective "to hold steady on the course"; to sustain high production, high employment; U.S. dollar reserve position improved from $503 million end of 1947 to $1,065 million end of 1948; the U.S. European Recovery Program restoring key-areas of Europe — this important to our national safety; greater supplies of consumer goods; rising cost of living now 50 per cent above pre-war and 20 per cent above 1939; consumer spending will be higher in 1949 than ever for 4 reasons: a) increased wages, b) distribution of refundable taxes, c) additional payments to farmers by Wheat Board, and d) reduced taxes.

Mr. Abbott's 1949 budget will go down in history as the "little man's budget" — bringing benefits to every family in Canada.

Know His Onions

The late Henry Ford knew the money racket. His writings on money are gems for simplicity and power of analysis. We quote from a speech of his at the beginning of the depression of 1937. He said:

"The stock market has no more real effect on American business than the results of a dog race in California. The root of all our trouble is that money has become a commodity that is bought and sold and is cheap and dear instead of being a ticket of exchange instead of an adjunct of business. Money is not wealth. Wealth is what money buys, but that has been turned upside down. The present system has got us tricked into producing things to buy dollars with, when what we need is a money system that will produce dollars to buy things with."

"Under the present system the tail wags the dog. In other words, money runs things. Money is just a path of society's transportation system for moving goods from man to man. It breaks down no often that it is time our financial engineers developed a better model."

"The present system is one that seeks to control labor, wants to control government, finance, food, industry, and even the schools, it manifests an adventurousness that would control everything — money. There is no reason why the government should adopt a dog-in-the-manager attitude by restricting the creation of credit and at the same time refusing to allow the provinces to make use of it."

Bang's Disease Discussed
With Farmers:
It was very gratifying to see the large turnout of farmers and interested business men at the meeting last Thursday night, sponsored by the Agricultural Committee of the Wainwright and District Board of Trade. Dr. Ballantyne discussed Bang's Disease very thoroughly in his address, and following the address, a question period was held during which a number of questions were asked in order to clear up any doubt left in the minds of those in attendance. I feel quite sure that very few went home thinking it wasn't an evening well spent. Some that were at the meeting have since asked if it couldn't be possible to have specialists come to future meetings of the above description and discuss other Agricultural Problems. I am very positive this could be arranged if a request was made to the Agricultural Committee. Approximately 110 attended the above meeting.

Home Pasteurization
Dr. Ballantyne discussed the great danger of milk becoming contaminated from diseased cows, and suggested that it would be wise to Home Pasteurize your milk before using, if there was no Dairy with a Pasteurizing unit handy. It is not wise to drink milk from cows that have not been tested for Bang's unless it is first purified.

A simple method of Home Pasteurization is as follows: Place the milk in clean container and bring to a boil, then cool rapidly and keep at low temperatures until used, or another method, heat the milk to a temperature of 145 F and hold at that temperature for twenty minutes then cool gradually.

NOT ENOUGH WOOL

A wool-pictorial of the needs of Canadian manufacturers and the actual home production of raw wool reveal a deplorable condition. Normal annual requirements stand at about 100,000,000 pounds while total Canadian production, shorn and pulled, is only about 10,000,000—less than enough to meet the need for one month. Moreover it should be noted that there is practically no stock pile such as is built up in other essentials.

That's the picture in peace-time with every effort directed in woolens for the greater part of the year. The threatened Third War should break, the supply is so far below actual requirements that the situation is absolutely ridiculous. If not dangerous. Formerly we have shown that wool ranks with steel and oil and like was needed in importance. The best protection for domestic need or for war demands is more wool on the backs of Canadian sheep each year.

National Film Board Showings
The National Film Board showings will commence in the M.P.D. Saturday April 9th and continue for 11 shows, concluding the first circuit Saturday, April 23rd.

Mr. Robblee will be in attendance part of the time to discuss local agricultural problems and other items of interest to the farming community. A list of places for showing will be advertised as soon as centres can be contacted. Plan to make it a date with the family to attend the showing closest to your home and enjoy some good free pictures.

Grow Reed Canary Grass on Flooded Land

Reed Canary is the best cultivated grass to grow on low lying areas which are flooded for long periods in the spring. Not only is it naturally adapted to flooded conditions, but it also produces heavy yields of good quality feed. Ideal locations for it are lands relatively free from alkali that remain flooded for as long as two months or more in the spring. Extensive areas of land throughout Western Canada, now practically wasted, or growing low quality rough hays, could be producing large amounts of winter feed if seeded to Reed Canary. Seeding to Reed Canary would, in most cases, double or triple the yields in addition to providing a much better type of feed, says R. E. McKenna, Dominion Experimental Station, Swift Current, Sask.

Reed Canary is a very easy grass to establish if reasonable care is taken with seeding and particularly in preparing a seed bed. All native grasses and other plants should be completely destroyed and the land well worked down to give a firm seed bed. Seedings are more successful than broadcasting and may be done as deep as one inch but no more. The seedling rate is less than for most grasses, although lighter rates may be used under good conditions. The resulting stands will thicken up in a year or two since this grass is a very hardy perennial. Recent experiments at the Swift Current Station have shown that the seeds of Reed Canary will stand being under water for long periods and seedlings emerge after the water goes off. Thus, seeding may be done in the late fall just prior to freeze-up on land which is spring flooded. Spring seeding can be done as well, but may have to be delayed so late because of flooding, that hot weather in July will result in loss of plants.

While the main use of Reed Canary on flooded land is for hay, it makes an excellent pasture also and is a very profitable seed crop. The usual high price of seed will give good returns providing a satisfactory method of harvesting can be used. The heads ripen from the top downward, the seed shattering almost as soon as mature. One method of harvesting seed is with a binder, removing the knife and guards and fitting the reel back over the seed into a box constructed to fit on the table. The reel should be set to just strike the heads. The field can be gone over two or three times as the seed ripens. After harvesting the seed, seed quality may still be cut.

NEW IDEAS FOR YOUR FARM KITCHEN

Mrs. V. G. Macdonald, Supervisor, Home Economics Service, suggests the following special features for those who are planning to modernize their kitchens:

1. A double-deck floor bin—This is a small bin just above the mixing counter to replace the usual, less convenient floor canister. Above this, is a big reserve floor bin which quickly feeds flour into the small bin when a metal shutter is opened.
2. A Convenient Non-Sloped Garbage Disposal Arrangement—planned especially for farm use. An oblique opening, cut in the counter by the sink, permits vegetables to be peeled and plates scraped directly into a pail under the counter. This saves the usual stooping to empty garbage into a pail on the floor. The filled pail may be removed for washing through the kitchen cabinet door. The opening in the counter, the lid which lifts out, and the entire inside of the cabinet holding the pail are lined with metal for cleanliness.
3. Revolving Corner Cupboards—These "lazy Susan" circular shelves turn on a center pole and may be built in one or two corners of the kitchen above and below work counter levels. Corner space in kitchen cupboards often is wasted because it is difficult to reach in the usual straight cupboard. The revolving shelves at this location, make for easy use and ample storage, especially of large articles. They are both stooping and stretching. The bottom cupboard shelf should be high enough to allow for brushing out under the shelf or it should be removable.

METAL STAINS

Some of the most baffling stains homemakers find on linens and clothing result from contact with metal. The tarnish of copper, tin, brass and other metals may leave stains on fabrics. To remove such stains, Mrs. Vera Macdonald, Supervisor of the Alberta Department of Agriculture's Home Economics Division, recommends the use of a mild acid such as lemon juice or vinegar. The acid should be rinsed off as soon as the stain dissolves. A common mistake is to try to remove the stain with one of the common chlorine bleaches which have an oxidizing effect on the metal and only intensifies and sets the stain instead of removing it.

Wet iron or steel sometimes leaves a dark stain as well as the familiar rust stain. Here again, the best remover is a mild acid and thorough rinsing. To remove rust stains from delicate white cottons and linens spread the stain over a pan of boiling water and squeeze lemon juice on it. After a few minutes, rinse and repeat.

Another method is to sprinkle with salt, squeeze lemon juice over it and spread in the sun to dry—adding more lemon juice if traces of rust show.

Cream of tartar may be used on an iron stain. Rub the cream of tartar with water. Boil the rust stained article in this, then rinse well.

Distons for removal of other stains may be found in the new leaflet "Stain Removal". This leaflet may be obtained from the Home Economics Extension Service, Alberta Department of Agriculture, Edmonton, or from your District Home Economist.

AVOID WOOL BLINDNESS IN SHEEP

Woolblindness occurs in sheep with heavily woolled faces. The wool grows over the eyes, obscuring the vision and sometimes injuring the eyes. The obvious remedy is to trim the wool around the eyes periodically or breed sheep without this characteristic, says the Dominion Range Experiment Station, Manlybarrie, Alta.

Sheep which are woolblind for part of the year do not do so well as others. They are more apt to be lost from the band and may die because of lowered resistance and vitality due to partial blindness or lack of vision. Woolblind lambs are blind in the feedlot and are therefore not able to feed as well as lambs with open faces.

Wool grown on the face is of questionable commercial value, as it is often short and contaminated with chaff and other foreign material. Second cuts are often made in shearing around the face, and wool sheared from the face is apt to be lost from the fleeces or left with the tags.

In the past, woolblindness has been common among Rambouillet and Rambouillet-crossed sheep, but through selection for the open-faced type a general improvement in this characteristic has been effected. The Rambouillet, Romedale, Corriedale and other breeds which are being produced on the ranges of the west are relatively free from woolblindness, but an occasional ewe will revert to the original finewool type with excessive face covering. The Rambouillet was used in producing most of the accepted range breeds, for it has long excelled in point hardness and flocking instinct.

Studies of Rambouillet sheep have indicated the following:

- (1) Open-faced ewes produce 12 per cent more pounds of lamb per ewe per year than woolblind ones.
- (2) Sheep with the most wool on the faces tend to have the finest fleeces.
- (3) There is little or no relationship between face covering and fleece weight or body weight of ewes.
- (4) Open-faced lambs show less back wrinkling than those with wool-covered faces.
- (5) Lambs tend to show the same type of face covering as their parents, indicating that the heritability of this characteristic is relatively high. For this reason, excessive face covering can be eliminated in the flock by selection of open-faced breeding animals.

SPOT NEWS FROM ABROAD

Aust'lian Wheat Price
The Australian Minister of Commerce has announced that the guaranteed price for 1948-49 crop wheat will be 6/6d. (11.08) a bushel bulk f.o.b. compared with the 1947-48 price of 6/8d. (11.01). The increase is the result of increasing production costs and is in accordance with regulations of the Wheat Industry Stabilization Act of 1948.

A'gentine Corn
It is reported from Buenos Aires that the Government trading agency (I.A.P.I.) has reduced the export price of corn from the equivalent of $2.38 to $1.88 per bushel, f.o.b. If payment is made in U.S. dollars the price will be further reduced to $1.71 for quantities of 50 thousand tons (1.97 million bushels) and upwards.

N.Z. Dairy Products
An amendment to the New Zealand Dairy Produce Commission Act has been passed by the New Zealand Parliament extending the control of the Commission to all dairy products for export. Formerly only the export of butter and cheese was under control but now the Commission has authority to regulate exports of condensed and powdered milk, lactose, casein and other dairy products.

United States Wool
On December 31, 1948, the United States Department of Agriculture announced its wool support program for 1949 which will assure growers an average wool price of slightly above 45 cents a pound, greasy basis. The price approximates last year's support.

SWEET CLOVER SEEDING
This is one crop that is not grown enough in this district. In dry years like 1947 and 1948 sweet clover gave excellent stands of both hay and pasture. The seed is cheap. It can be seeded with the crop and the following year it may be pastured or cut early for hay. Cows should be taken with the crop to not let it go to seed as seed may lay over in the ground several years before growing. It is good practice to take a hay crop, as soon as the plants are in flower and plow the area, as soon as the hay crop can be removed. In this way there is very little danger of having the crop volunteer in grain crops the following years.

FERTILIZING GRAIN CROPS
Increased yields of several bushels per acre can be expected from using commercial fertilizers on wheat, oats and barley, the biggest increases are obtained on summerfallow. In very dry years the value of fertilizer will not be evident in the growing crop but in normal years it is very evident. There seems to be a larger supply of fertilizer than usual this year, for farmers that would like to try fertilizer on their crops. Applications should run at about 20 pounds per acre, seed with the grain, either with a fertilizer attachment or mixed in the seed box.

LAST CHANCE FOR SEED
There is still a limited supply of Bromes and Alfalfa in the Alberta Government warehouse. Seed agents in this area are located at Wainwright, Edgerton, Chauvin and Provost for your convenience. Seed supplied through the Provincial Government Forage Crop Policy is of top quality and delivers freight free to the above points.

It will apply to all types and grades of shorn and milled wool produced in the United States and territories.

A Farm Storage Tank Doesn't "Cost" IT PAYS!

A farm storage tank permits you to buy and store enough fuel at one time to be sure of having a supply on hand when you need it. No costly delays when tractors stand idle, waiting for fuel to be delivered. It helps to keep fuel clean and avoid plugging of fuel lines and carburetors with grit, dust or water. The tank can be mounted with enough slant to cause any impurities to settle away from the outlet. It saves time in re-fueling tractors and trucks, if the tank is mounted overhead. Gravity flow is quicker than pumping or pouring. It prevents the spillage of the pump-and-pull method... or the wastage of the "tee gallon" that is often left in the bottom of each barrel.

A farm storage tank pays in added safety, because it can be located well away from house, barn or sheds. Tanks come in three sizes. The price is reasonable. See your Imperial Oil Agent.

COMPARE PLYMOUTH FOR STYLE...
RIDE... ROOMY COMFORT... SIZE!

Compare the new Plymouth! You'll find its styling smart . . . and functional too! Plymouth styling allows ample head, neck and shoulder room in both front and rear seats. It provides wide-angle vision for greater safety. Its doors permit easy entrance and exit. Plymouth's stylish "bullet back" allows a spacious luggage compartment. Its fender openings permit easy servicing of tires and the quick application of chains, when necessary. Plymouth's functional styling retains fenders, so that with Plymouth a minor scrape does not mean a major repair.

Compare the new Plymouth for comfort! Plymouth's body is more dust-proof and is rust-proofed for a longer, brighter life. Its longer, 118 1/2" wheelbase allows passengers to be seated even farther ahead of the rear axle, for greater comfort. Note Plymouth's roomy interior . . . its rich, Fashion-Tone upholstery . . . its comfortable chair-height seats. Try them! Lounge back and s-t-r-e-t-c-h . . . you'll like their comfort.

Compare the new Plymouth's ride! Better insulation and softer rubber body mountings minimize road noises. Its soft-acting coil front springs, airplane-type shock absorbers and low-pressure, Super Cushion tires all contribute to its incredibly smooth, relaxing ride.

Compare Plymouth . . . outside, inside and under the hood! When you do, you'll agree that PLYMOUTH brings you more of the things you really want in an automobile.

A Pencil Will Help

A pencil will prove a most useful tool in the gardener's kit, and it should be the first one put to use each season. True, it is not much use out in the garden itself, but with a few pieces of paper and perhaps a small ruler, it will come in mighty handy for planning. And planning is an important and pleasant part of gardening.

It is not necessary to have an exact blue print, or even a plan drawn to scale, though a rough sketch in the proper proportion, with the prominent features like the house, garage, walks, trees, etc., marked in about the right places, will make things neater and easier.

The main thing about planning, however, is to help get the garden started at the proper time, and to prevent duplication and crowding.

For the vegetables planning is simple mathematics. It is just a case of determining how much space is available and then laying out in rows of various widths. For vegetables of medium size like beans, lettuce, carrots and such things it is best to leave at least a foot between rows and up to twice this much will not hurt. More space between makes cultivation easier. Larger growing things like potatoes, peas, corn, etc., should have at least two feet between rows, and a yard will not be too much, especially where a garden tractor is to be used for cultivation. Three feet apart is about the right distance for tomatoes, too, although they can go closer if they are staked. With sprays of vines like cucumbers, melons and small squash, the best plan is to plant in hills of a foot to 18 inches square and at least two feet between.

For the flower garden, lawns and shrubbery about the house, the experts usually advise an informal layout. By that, however, they don't mean just planting anywhere or, as one wit suggested, mixing a dozen packets of seeds together and sowing broadcast. It may sound a bit Irish but, wait, these experienced gardeners have in mind is a carefully planned layout to produce the informal effect, and it is not difficult to accomplish. A few simple rules will help.

First, and of great importance, is the lawn. No matter how small the amount of ground to be landscaped it is advisable to have a piece of lawn in the centre and foreground. Around this the flowers and shrubbery are grouped with the house in the background. There is nothing like a well kept lawn to show off the rest.

One should keep in mind the mature height of the plants, shrubbery and trees to be used. Allow half as much space between as most individuals will finally grow. With an aster, that means a few inches apart, with a sunflower or hollyhock 1 or 2 feet, medium tall shrubs such as ordinary spires, pretty close to 4 feet, and with a maple tree the space between would be at least 30 feet.

PROTECTION UNDER THE NOXIOUS WEEDS ACT

Lands farmed by a succession of occupants are, as a rule, the most weed-infested in any district. Weed inspectors recognize this and are now inclined to deal sharply with the tenant occupant, usually a renter, who has no interest in maintaining the productivity of land or in the welfare of the community in which he might reside for a time.

To meet this situation, weed inspectors have the authority to issue notices to prohibit the seeding of lands infested with noxious weeds "with any grain or other crop." Further, every person to whom such notice has been given who "sells, leases or lets" any land affected by such notice, who does

GERALD

Mr. and Mrs. D. Rattner and Robert moved to Edmonton for a short visit. They were accompanied by Mrs. R. Deyell and Bala.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Henderson and two children have moved to their new home at Pabian on Mrs. G. Madder's farm. Mr. and Mrs. G. Christenson and family visited them, and also the hosts of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pinder on Sunday.

The card party at Gerald school on Wednesday evening was an enjoyable affair. Winners of prizes were: Miss Shirley Christenson and Mr. G. Denoncourt, low—Miss Della Christenson and Mr. B. Scherger.

Mr. and Mrs. F. McLennan and daughter Judy have been visiting Mrs. McLennan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Myggland. Mrs. McLennan is now in the Wainwright hospital for a few days.

Mr. J. Perkins spent a few days in Edmonton attending the Livestock Show.

Mrs. P. Murray and two children of Hanna are visitors at the home of her sister, Mrs. J. Perkins.

The Gerald club held their March meeting on Thursday, March 17th at the home of Mrs. H. Strauss with eight members present. Mrs. G. Gulek, vice-president presided. A donation of $10.00 will be given to the Red Cross. Members answered Roll Call with an exchange of handkerchiefs. The St. Patrick contest given by Mrs. C. Gulek was won by Mrs. E. Erickson. Then all enjoyed a social time and the lunch served by Mrs. Strauss.

MIDGET HOCKEY

In the final league game the Canadians defeated the Maroons 5-3 to maintain the supremacy they have shown throughout the season. Scores were as follows: Maroons (5), Raamussen, and Sheffield for Canadians; and Harley (3) and Carter for Maroons.

The Midget hockey players would like to thank the following for helping to make their efforts a success: The Wainwright Board of Trade, the P.M.C. Committee, and the Wainwright Star-Chronicle.

The Red Cross Story

More than 100 persons a month are still being reunited across a gap of war torn years and thousands of miles through the agency of the Canadian Red Cross Society in Manchuria at Harbin.

This vast network stretches out to the 66 national Red Cross Societies and other welfare organizations around the world, including the International Refugee Organization.

"Sometimes it may take us as long as two years to trace a relative," Miss Johnson says. The Bureau works in Canada mainly through national government departments, through the R.C.M.P., the local police departments.

U. of A. News Column

Botany is often regarded merely as a study of flowers and the naming of flowering plants. This is indeed an important part of the science, for botanists have carefully described, named and classified some 200,000 species of these plants. But, botany deals also with the flowerless plants, such as ferns, mosses, sea-weeds, lichens, molds, and many inconspicuous organisms. Description of these smaller plants requires the use of a powerful microscope. Not only does the botanist describe, name, and classify the various kinds of plants; he examines their minute internal structure and discovers how the different parts develop and function in the whole life of the plant. This is quite a difficult study, involving not only the detailed structure of organs, but also complex chemical processes as well as relations of the plant to its surroundings. Fundamentally the botanist is concerned here with the nature of life itself. The study of a plant in relation to its growing condition, the soil, the climate, etc., leads the botanist to consider plant populations. Such a population or group of plants is illustrated by a poplar grove, or a field of grain, or a patch of weeds. So, the botanist is concerned with larger aspects of the vegetation, for example, with virgin prairie and overgrazed prairie, with spruce forest and the natural changes in a spruce area following a burn. Thus the matter of time comes in for consideration, how different kinds of plants and vegetation have developed on the earth through the centuries and what the trends are now. Several other aspects of plant life interest the botanist, such as heredity, plant diseases, the distribution of species over the earth, and how plants affect man's physical, economic and cultural welfare.

This brief outline will serve to indicate the kind of instruction received by students who study botany at the University of Alberta. The staff members of the Department of Botany devote a large portion of their time to this instruction and to the necessary preparation. They are also interested in adding to botanical knowledge through research. Accordingly, botanists of this department have carried out numerous investigations, chiefly on native plants of the region. They have studied the local types of vegetation, poplar, spruce, pine, maple, and prairie grasses. They have also carried out researches on special features of poplar, pine, spruce, and prairie grasses, and other plants. Many of these investigations are of some practical importance. For instance, a comparison of virgin prairie with utilized native grassland has provided certain clues to the proper use of these lands. A major investigation in the department during recent years concerns the root hairs of mustard, tomato, and other plants. Root hairs are the delicate structures on the surface of roots that put the plant in close contact with its supply of soil water and nutrients. Critical study has shown that these structures are very sensitive to surrounding conditions and that a better understanding of their behavior will be of practical importance to plant growers. Other researches now in progress include an attempt to discover conditions favorable for the rooting of woody cuttings.

The effects of growth-promoting substances on cuttings and on growth processes of forest trees are also being studied. The aim of these investigations is a better understanding of the relation of the plant to its environment and the practical results may be useful in horticulture and forestry.

Professional botanists in Alberta are faced with the task of producing a book containing descriptions of all the flowering and other more conspicuous plants of the Province. At present no suitable manual of this kind is available. The writing of such a book is a long and arduous task, involving extensive collection and collection of specimens, critical study, careful descriptions of species, and the preparation of keys for identification. The project is that the publication should be ready within the next three or four years.

Red Cross Ready To Cope With Disaster

"Readiness to cope with disaster was in Canada on short notice is a prime obligation of the Canadian Red Cross Society," Harvey Doney, M.D., National Director of Disaster Services, stated today as the Society's $50,000 national appeal for funds opened its second week.

"During the western floods last year, Red Cross proved itself capable in co-operation with others, of handling a disaster that was national in scope. As a direct result of our activities at that time, the Society is now bending every effort to provide a standardized unit for the relief of disaster from coast to coast. It is already in operation in some provinces and is well underway in others.

"The volunteer provides that each Red Cross provincial division forms an active Disaster Services Committee, responsible for policy and acting as an advisory body to the Division president and executive; that each Division be geographically zoned with a Red Cross Branch selected as zone headquarters and that in more isolated areas where no Red Cross Branches exist, individuals be appointed to represent the Society.

"In the event of disaster, these representatives would be contacted, they in turn would get in touch with the nearest Red Cross branch, which would notify the Division, which would notify the Division. In that order. Where the disaster is national in scope Division would contact National Office for every single disaster service.

"It has been suggested to each Division that a survey of emergency shelter possibilities be undertaken and that the results be given to the establishment of mobile hospitals and equipment at strategic points throughout the province, as has been done in Nova Scotia, for example.

"Members of the Disaster Services Committee should be drawn from representatives of the governments, the business and industry, civilian relief and welfare organizations, doctors, nurses, food and clothing dealers, making a committee capable of covering every single disaster service.

"The key to a successful Disaster Services program lies in a well-planned organization ready to function on a moment's notice, and in the wholehearted support of volunteer workers at time of disaster.

"The people of Canada can play a part in this vital work," said Dr. Doney "by supporting their Red Cross during the fund campaign to make it possible for us to give help whenever and whenever it is needed."

Following a thorough discussion of the matter, the Board agreed that the method of grazing the area under control of the Assoc. based on the necessity of retaining the border areas for holding pastures during active Army manoeuvres in July of this season, makes necessary the movement of all cattle into the Buffalo Park proper for spring grazing.

Motion Brown-Hines, that cattle for pasture be accepted only on opening date of season, and on two days—30 days after the opening date—all cattle to pay full pasture fees for 5 months.

Motion Abbott-Patterson, that pasture fee for Assoc. members' cattle be $2.00 for the 1 month season in 1949 with an additional $2.00 charged for each cow delivered to the Pasture for breeding purposes.

Motion Brown-Hines, that temporary Grazing for non-member resident stock-owners outside of the membership boundary be subject to the following regulations:

1. That opening date is the only time when cattle will be received.

2. Grazing fees based on $1.00 per head per month of actual grazing time must be paid before cattle are removed from the Park area.

3. That all cattle accepted for Temporary Grazing must be returned to private pastures by 25 June, 1949.

Uniform Bible Studies

A NEIGHBORLY RELIGION

Sunday School Lesson

Text: Jesus among people of other races—Mark 7:24-27.

Memory Selection: God shows no partiality, but in every nation one who fears Him and does what is right is acceptable to Him. Acts 10:34-35.

The truth to be kept in mind in our study of this subject is that Jesus' universalism was a matter of His spirit and attitude. Not only did He recognize no distinctions of race or class, but He felt none. There are great sayings which express His mind on this matter, such as "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature." There are deeds of mercy done for people of races other than His own, such as healing of the Centurion's boy and of the daughter of the Syro-Phoenician. Matthew adds saying to this story of the centurion which shows that Jesus found in certain Gentile qualities as pronouncedly spiritual as among the Jews—sometimes more so. "Truly, I say to you, not even in Israel have I found such faith."

Further, a famous Jewish scholar regards Jesus as a prophet but adds that his race could never accept as Messiah one who belittled the distinctive rites of the Jewish nation in favor of those moral laws which the conclusions of all races recognize. In the very essence of Jesus' teachings there are elements which cannot be confined to people of any particular race or tradition. A generation ago someone asked why Jesus always gave special attention to the poor and answered that He did this to show that He valued men simply as men apart altogether from the accidents of their position or possessions. It was a Samaritan, and therefore a member of a race despised by Jews, whom Jesus described as acting on this principle—"Whosoever inclineth his heart to supply, I love him, regardless of his race, creed, outward condition or attitude toward myself."

Modern invention based on many control of nature's forces has made the whole world a neighborhood. We are as close to Britain today as we were to a village fifty miles away in the childhood of many people now living.

This is the charter of our Missionary work. At home and abroad the Gospel is to be preached to all men regardless of race and color. As we have just seen, it is to men as men that Jesus appeals, and it is men as human beings who have it in them to respond. Missionary travellers like David Livingstone, a generation ago and Mildred Cable with her companions in our own found people who longed for God and who had a real capacity for God in regions where the name of Jesus had never been heard. In such hearts the story of redeeming love found a ready response.

In a country like Canada followers of Jesus must be peace-makers.

People of many different races have moved into this new land. Racial animosities and nationalistic movements should have no place in a wide and free land like ours. Each of us may provoke bitterness between different sections of our population because many issues arise to divide. We can be true to our convictions and advocate them with earnestness and at the same time respect the honest beliefs of others. Anything that is sacred to a fellow-citizen should be treated with reverence; we may disbelieve what he believes, but we can maintain our own views without offending him. At least we should try to understand his position, and usually when we do understand we find that he has something of value to contribute to our spiritual experience. "Speaking the truth in love" is Paul's way of putting it, and then loyalty to the truth and the spirit which commands it to others come joyously together.

Working without a plan is sailing without a compass.

God help the poor, for the rich can help themselves.

THE LATE MR. DAN LYTLE
The late Mr. Lytle went into Edgerton with his nephew Jimmy on the evening of his decease and after supper at their folks he went up town, later returning to his nephew's home with whom he was staying and where the disastrous fire occurred. Jimmy in the meantime was at the St. Patrick's Day dance in Edgerton. The news was broken to him by Mr. Milo Dorland, to whom Mr. Jimmy Lytle would particularly like to extend his thanks for his very great sympathy and consideration.

ROSEDALE
Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Oxy returned from Tuesday.
Mrs. Guy Gibson and Calvin Anderson spent the week-end at their home in the LaPard District where they attended a shower for their sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cameron.

This district seems to have seen the last of the chicken pox. Little Judy McAfee was the latest to have them. Mrs. Paul Stanko returned from the Wainwright hospital on Wednesday and is feeling better.
Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kingswood were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Norman McAfee on Thursday.

Mr. Guy Gibson was a business visitor to Edmonton the first of the week. A good crowd attended the wedding dance of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tomlin at Rosedale Hall on Friday night.

A card party and dance will be held at Rosedale Hall on Friday, April 8. Let's have a good crowd as this may be your last "fling" before spring work starts.

Health Survey Holds Meeting At Edgerton

The meeting called for Monday, Mar. 21st to hear Dr. Somerville and Miss Clark explain the Health Survey Scheme proposed for this province was very well attended considering that many were absent attending the funeral of the late Dan Lytle. The need of a resident doctor and adequate dental services were strongly emphasized by the meeting. Many questions were asked and answered in a satisfactory manner and many points were discussed very fully. The meeting was sponsored by the Edgerton and District Board of Trade, Mr. C. D. Archer, President of the Board of Trade, presiding.

SCHOLARSHIPS OFFERED FOR LIBRARY TRAINING
Applications will be received up to May 1st, 1949, for four library scholarships to the value of $250.00 each, which are again being offered by the Department of Economic Affairs of the Provincial Government. The announcement was made recently by Miss Louise Riley, Chairman of the Alberta Library Board.

The purpose of the scholarship, now offered for the second successive year, is to help relieve the acute shortage of trained librarians which exist in the Province of Alberta. Through this scholarship young people will be assisted to attend library schools in Eastern Canada or the United States. Recipients will be expected to return to Alberta at the conclusion of their course.

For complete details of the scholarship plan, applicants are requested to write to Richard MacDonald, Secretary, Alberta Library Board, Department of Economic Affairs, Legislative Building, Edmonton.

In the Legislature

By W. Mason, M.L.A.

Estimates now being considered in the House show increased expenditures for administration costs in every department.

A grasshopper plague is anticipated in the South East part of the Province and provision is made for this. Unfavourable crop conditions in the area of the Wainwright project last year necessitate some provision of seed for these settlers. The Veterans will be called on to pay one third of the seed costs with the balance being charged against their lease.

Premier Manning indicated that half a million dollars was appropriated for further irrigation construction work, while additional provision will be made to take advantage of any joint Dominion-Provincial irrigation undertakings.

More than nine million dollars has been appropriated for main highway construction; one million for bridge building; over five million for public buildings and institutions.

The Alberta Premier told the House how providing services was received: 31.13% of our income revenue comes from Dominion subsidies and grants as compared with 34.5 per cent from that source last year. Land revenue will be 13.4% as compared with 20 per cent; motor vehicle licenses and gas tax represents 20.67 per cent of our estimated revenue compared with 14.5 per cent last year. Revenue from natural resources, including oil, will be approximately 24.11 per cent or nearly 15 million dollars. The Premier stressed that this revenue comes from a depleting asset and should not be used for current expenses but should be used for capital expenditures which provide other assets in place of those being depleted.

Appropriations for highways and public buildings will be in excess of 12 million dollars this year. Final appropriations for social services including education and health, amount to approximately 28 million dollars.

Hon. D. B. McNeil, in reply on the work of his Department to the House, indicated that the Province of Alberta did not receive a dollar in the way of Federal aid for roads. The cost of the Grinnath road, which travels into Federal territory, at that time they estimated the cost to be $2 million. When the road was completed it had cost $2,500,000 and the Federal Government had refused to pay any portion of the increased costs, leaving it to be borne entirely by this Province.

Hon. D. B. McNeil introduced a bill relating to the sale of margarine. It has been referred to the Agricultural Committee where any interested groups or individuals will have the opportunity of making representation on this question.

Considerable progress is being made by the Legislature and there is every indication that the Session will finish before the end of March. Next week it is my purpose to give some information on some of the legislation presently being considered.

It is too late to cover the wall when the child is drowned.

SLIGO — MASCOT

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kingswood returned home on Monday from the coast.

The annual anniversary party put on by the W.I. on Saturday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Black was a huge success.

About 40 participated in a chicken supper and all the trimmings. After every one was filled to capacity—some to the state of being uncomfortable—the dishes were washed up and the evening was spent in playing cards.

The prize winners for the evening were as follows: ladies first, Dorcas McKern; ladies second, Mrs. McKern; consolation Mrs. Hughes; gent's first, Mr. J. Black; second, Mr. McKern; consolation Mr. J. Bewell.

At the close of the evening more chicken, pie and cake were served. Everyone reported a grand time and will look forward to another year.

(This week)

"Go west young man, go west." This old saying is holding true to form this week as two of our local boys have the travelling bug. Howard Zelle moved to Edmonton on Monday and Stan Postans left for Calgary on Friday. Date of return unknown.

Several ladies gathered at Mrs. F. Zelle's for a quilting bee on Tuesday. The shawl brigade was out on Friday afternoon and opened up the town line.

Norman Garrioch made a trip to Edgerton and brought home a new tractor this week.

Mr. Bob McKern of Chilliwack is

Bloomington-Aspen

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Taylor made a quick trip to Edmonton on Saturday. Phyllis went with them and on Sunday left for Calgary to enter the Vocational School to train as a nurse's aid. Good luck Phyllis.

The shower, which was announced, has been cancelled.

The regular wheel drive was held in Bloomington Valley hall Saturday night. There was a fine crowd—18 tables altogether. Ladies' first was won by Mrs. Easter, second Mrs. Trotter and third Mrs. Ralph Dorland. Men's prizes went to first, Mr. H. McNeill; second John Perkins, third Tommy Basley.

Mr. W. Colp left Bloomington Valley to work in Southern Alberta for the summer.

Miss Annie Robinson has been helping Mrs. Trotter.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Boomhower spent Sunday visiting relatives at Melrose.

There will be a dance held at Bloomington on April 8th and one at Aspen on April 1st.

visiting with his cousins the Smalles.

Best wishes are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Bill Tomlin on their recent marriage. Their wedding dance held in Rosedale on Friday night was attended by many from this district and all reported an enjoyable time.

The head reporter was on the sick list this week. In fact "too sick to report" were his own wards. We hope he is on the mend and will be back on the job next week. Be more careful what you eat next time, fellow.
